Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Raleghana, Vol. 3: Remarks on the Ancestry of Sir Walter Raleigh Under such circumstances genealogy, or the art of pedigree-making, has, to a considerable extent, partaken of the character of a romance. The omission of some names, the introduction of others, the transference of names from one branch of the family to another, intermingled with occasional pure guesswork, have, singly or combined, led to, or assisted in, the construction of many pedigrees. These thoughts have been forcibly impressed on the mind of the writer, in his endeavour to investigate the ancestry of Sir Walter Raleigh, owing to the circumstance of these objectionable elements (not the sole ones) being present in so many of the accepted authorities on the subject. Ruskin asserted, It is not easy to be accurate in an account of anything, however simple. How much more difficult, then, to construct a pedigree, where facts, tradition, imagination, and carelessness (if nothing worse), are so much interwoven to produce a continuous line of descent! It is not encouraging at the onset of an inquiry into...
